The German cruiser Dresden, the last of Von Spee's squadron, slipped out of Punta Arenas on Sunday night and is now being pursued by the British cruiser Bristol. The Dresden has been bottled up and thought safe, but somehow escaped the vigilance of the British. The two ships compare in size, speed and armament as follows: Bristol — tonnage 4,500, speed 28.84 knots, guns two 6-inch, ten 4-inch; Dresden — tonnage 5,644, speed 27 knots, guns twelve 4.1-inch, four 2.1-inch.

By a majority of nearly a thousand over both opponents combined, Alderman M. G. Costello won in the mayoralty contest at Calgary on Monday. His opponents were Alderman Hunt and Alexander Allan. There was great interest in the contest. J. G. Gordon defeated Samson as commissioner. "Tom" Campbell failed in his run for school trustee. J. H. Woods, editor of the Calgary Herald, was elected a member of the hospital board.

The Minister of Finance of Canada has received an additional $550,000, only part of which is included in the above, which brings the total almost to $6,000,000.

Canadian Steamer Sharon Is Lost

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—The Canadian government steamer Sharon, bound from Sydney, O.B., to Newport Wales, with a cargo of coal, and a crew of 30 men, is a month overdue and is believed to have been lost somewhere in the Atlantic, according to information that reached here. Government officials said they thought it probable that the steamer had struck a mine off the coast of Ireland and foundered.

The Sharon was purchased a year ago for the work on the Hudson Bay route. She cost about $150,000, and was chartered to the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. for the winter. The crew was shipped in Canada. She reported by wireless after leaving Newfoundland. Nothing has been heard from her since then.

Apologise, Says

Italy to Turkey

Rome, Dec. 13, 8.25 p.m.—Italy has reprimanded her urgent demands for public reparation in the case of the port of Taranto, the Italian consul of G. A. Ricciardi, the British consul at Hodges, from the Italian consulate, where he had taken refuge and for his immediate liberation.

It is understood that Germany has advised the Constantinople government to satisfy Italy's demand and thus avoid complications.

Richardson, it is alleged, recently was forcibly removed by Turks from the Italian consulate and was placed aboard a boat bound for an unknown destination. The foreign minister, Baron Sonnino, has asked the Ottoman government to give public satisfaction to Italy or the violation of the consulate.

Baron Sonnino, in answering an interpolation in the Chamber, denied that the Italian consul at Hodges, who was obliged to remain in his own home, which was watched for several days, until the arrival of the Italian consul-general, Giuliano and the Italian ambassador, Mario Polo, which had been ordered to Hodges.

The Turkish government in answering a request for reparation, the minister told the deputies that it was waiting for information and would adopt the necessary measures.

Richardson concluded by saying that he did not believe the Ottoman government wished to share the responsibility of such a patent violation of consular rights. Having heard Baron Sonnino's statement, the deputies indicated in an enthusiastic manifestation in favor of national concord, in which the whole house, including the president, the prime minister and cabinet, joined, crying "Vive Italia," after which the chamber adjourned until Feb. 18.

Hillcrest Doing

Fair Business

"We are doing a fair amount of business, everything considered," said Mr. J. M. Mackie, managing director of Hillcrest Collieries, who returned from a month's visit to the property. "Coal is a necessity and for that reason we are probably doing better than the average industry just now. The Hillcrest plant is in perfect order and we are prepared to handle a much larger output whenever the demand increases."

Mr. Mackie spent some time in Calgary and other western cities on his way to and from Hillcrest, and noted with particular interest the disappearance of the professional real estate boomers from the arena of civic politics. "Whatever an election is going on or is in prospect, candidates for honour are coming out on platforms in which their main plank is retrenchment and economy."

"Two years ago a man who talked of retirement in the west wouldn't have been given a hearing for a minute," said Mr. Mackie. "But the real estate boomer who was interested in politics, real estate, too, for that matter."

The quiet business man is the one who is being listened to, and as a result I think the west is going to have better, saner government than it ever had."

Business in western cities is quiet said Mr. Mackie, but fairly good in farming communities, except possibly in south Alberta. However, even in western Alberta it was recognized as an early indication that the crop would be a failure and many farmers were able to help themselves out of difficulties by going to work for others.

Mr. Mackie remarked that the recent decision into the Hillcrest disaster of last June which was announced while he was away was satisfactory to the company as it coincided with the views of the officials. "The report bore out the contention by the company to make the mine safe, the cause of the explosion was an entire mystery and would always remain so." —Montreal Gazette.

Miner Killed at Bellevue

A fatal accident occurred at Bellevue mine No. 2 on Friday evening last, when an Italian miner, named Franco Grigorio, lost his life. Grigorio was riding a mule, and when looking ahead to see if any horses were in the way his head struck some timber with the result that death was instantaneous. The mule was being driven by Herman Varley, a miner who went through the Bellevue and Hillcrest disasters. An inquest was held by Coroner Pinkney on Friday afternoon, and was adjourned till Thursday afternoon, when the following verdict was returned:

"That the said Franco Grigorio met his death by accident, by being crushed by a moving mule on December 12th, 1914, at about 3.30 a.m., while following his regular employment as a brakeman at the No. 2 Bellevue mine of the West Canadian Collieries."

"Rider—We would recommend that in all cases where mechanical haulage is used at least sufficient space should be provided between the timbers and objects moving on the haulage tracks, to avoid repetitions of such an accident."

"(2) We would further suggest that some effort be made to establish more rapid communication between No. 2 mine and the hospital, as we believe that too much time is lost in getting medical assistance in a case of this kind."

Sunday, the third day of January next, has been appointed a day for humble prayer and intercession to Almighty God on behalf of the cause undertaken by our enemies, allies and others who are suffering their lives, for it, and for a speedy and favorable peace that shall be founded on understanding and not hatred, to the end that peace shall endure.

Tommy Burns, the Canadian who formerly held the heavyweight championship title of the world until defeated in Australia by Jack Johnson, was severely injured on Sunday evening last by a fall in a sleeping car near Casper, Wyoming. Training Officer. For the Army. The Standard has an article on the work of the Officers' Training corps, now busily engaged in the instruction of officers for the new army which Kitchener is organizing. A writer describes one of the schools at Headley, near Petersham. He writes: "A military school is made at Headley camp, and very particularly have extreme possibilities been overlooked in its planning and organization. In one very important particular a Kitchener subaltern has an advantage over the Sandhurst cadet. The former is taught the value of neutrality, and the Germans perfectly. Moreover, the doctrine of neutrality is not an act of war. At any rate, that is the teaching of international law, which is derived from the Geneva Convention. The latter is what he is being taught it is sure to need. He begins a little after six in the morning, and his start is the unbroken drill-parade after parade, with short breaks to rest mind as well as body. The progress which follows is remarkable. The army, I cannot insist too strongly upon the supreme supremacy of the teaching given to young officers, is a sharp contrast in instruction which they are undergoing those responsible for the administration of our forces, having the Scylla of cramming and the Charybdis of what the immortal Mulvarey contemptuously called 'theorizing.' Short lectures, rapid reading, the drill periods, and at half past four comes tea. Subsequently there is a necessary private study. Private study is hard work, but it is good work. DUTCH AGAINST GERMANS

Open Letter Warns Germany Against Expecting Too Much Cruelty in the World

The leading Amsterdam weekly paper, the Weekblad Voor Nederland, put out in the form of an open letter to our German friends a scathing reply to the constant communications which it says reach Holland from Germany to excite the public to the clearest incitement. The Amsterdam journal remarks that German reasoning is less effective than German force. "It is always painful to disillusion people who are in a state of madness, it is necessary to make certain things plain. They often do not understand."

"I should like to consider for a moment these relations between Germany and Belgium. Strange to say, the fact is that while the Germans accuse the Dutch for a virtue they regard as a crime on the part of the Belgians. The Belgians are not neutral. And yet the Belgians are just as good. They wanted to be neutral, and defend themselves with all their strength. They did not use their neutrality—as is their duty, and we, too, should still do."

Moreover, the Germans perfectly understand the doctrine of neutrality is not an act of war. At any rate, that is the teaching of international law, which is derived from the Geneva Convention. The latter is what he is being taught it is sure to need. He begins a little after six in the morning, and his start is the unbroken drill-parade after parade, with short breaks to rest mind as well as body. The progress which follows is remarkable. German Shell Fire

The character of the German shell fire was described by the colonel of the 2nd Wurtemberg Regiment, who was wounded by shrapnel during the fighting at Mons, and has now returned to England.

Upon reaching Mons, he says, they received the order to sit down to dinner, but before that most of them had to run through to fall among them like halibutons. They were then told to lie in the trenches. The German shells were falling all around the regiment was cut up, while the King's Own Scottish Borderers, who were on the left began the engagement. 1,700 men were killed or wounded.

Taylor said they could not hit a haystack in an army. Not more than a dozen shells ever burst in front of him. The British soldiers had the better of the fight until their ranks began to thin.

Taylor was taken to a church which had been transformed into a hospital, but the building was shelled so hard by an extent by the Germans that the wounded had to be removed.

Financial Stringency

Mrs. Barrows was worried—that fact was evident to her husband, although she tried to hide it from him. But before the evening was over she imparted to him the cause of her trouble.

"Well," said she, "I am very much afraid that my bank is in a bad way." "I'm foolish," said Mr. Barrows, "but I can't help it." Mrs. Barrows' worried Why? It's one of the strongest financial institutions in the state. What ever happened to it?"

"Well, it's very strange," replied Mrs. Barrows, still unconvinced. "They've just returned a check of mine for $40 marked 'No Funds.'

An amusing story is told of an adventure which took place in the Royal Scots. On one occasion, the men who had very little food for two days, and they were anxiously awaiting a new kitchen, which was to have been sent four hours earlier, had to wait until the kitchen arrived after great delay.

The kitchen arrived after great delay, with two pots boiling and the soldiers were waiting for their dinner, when a German shell landed in the middle of the kitchen, which was surrounded by smoke. The smoke round the men were smothered with the dinner which they had hoped to come in time. Although enough not one was killed, but the regiment had to go hungry and greedy.

The British home of agriculture has advised the householders of Great Britain to utilize every root of soil and every scrap of garden for the production of food to supplement their own garden produce. In this way they can assist in relieving any shortage which may develop in relieving any shortage which may develop in the most friendly way possible.

The German imperial chamber, and the German people were surely not so simple as to suppose that as soon as the German government had declared war, the war mater was for Belgium finished and done with. Belgium had another neighbor in the south, and if Belgium had been beaten, France would have had the right to regard it as a cause bell. It must be on the part of the other.

There is nothing more effective in removing any sore or ulcer than Zam-Buk. It is a safe medicine in certain cases. Take no other. The demand for it shows that it is the only popular oil.

Entente Cordiale

The following narrative shows the cordiality of the French and English troops in the trenches.

"A regtiment lay in trenches under a rifle and grapef ire. Suddenly a couple of privates noticed a soldier who was fearfully placed at a spot where the trench was not wide enough to enable him to make proper use of his rifle.

"The Frenchman was unable to move, and could not leave the spot in which he was placed, because they were serving the enemy as targets, dug out the trench in front of the Frenchman, and returned with a rifle to their own places and their rifles.

FOR THE HONOR OF OUR COUNTRY AND THE CIVILIZATION OF EUROPE

NO PRICE TOO HIGH FOR DEFENCE OF LIBERTIES

Premier Asquith Says the Task is no Light One that Britain Has Underaken, but that it must be Fully Accomplished, and the German Domination Ended

At a great meeting in Edinburgh to encourage recruiting, Mr. Asquith made the chief address, as said in part:

"Fortnight ago today, in the Guildhall of the city of London, I endeavoured to present to the nation and to the world the reasons which all others who has the greatest interest in the maintenance of our freedom, in the upholding of the honor of our country, in the honor of our race, in the defense of our liberties, in the defense of our civilization, in the defense of our posterity. The fort-night in the maineau of those critical weeks—the last fortnight in July and the first few days in August—is now fully supplemented during the last few days by the admirable and exhaustive despatch of late made by Sir Maurice de Bunsen, a despatch which, I trust, everybody will read. And no one who reads it can doubt that it is the work of the efforts of my right hon. friend and colleagues, Sir Edward Grey, the conditions of a peaceful settlement have been arrived at already within sight, when on the 31st of Germany, by her own deliberate act, made war upon us. The facts are incontrovertible."

"They are not sought to be controverted except indeed in the sense of such wanton falsehoods as that France was contemplating and even commencing the violation of Belgian territory. The result is that we are at war, and we are at war—as I have already said—because we are at war. We have tonight—we are at war for three reasons. In the first place, to vindicate the sanctity of treaty obligations; in the second place, to defend the public law of Europe; if the second place, to assert and to enforce the independence of free states. We shall always accredit the anti-enrichments and the violence of the strong, and the weak power to withstand not only of our own empire but of civilization at large. The arrogant claim of a single power to dominate the destinies of the destinies of Europe (Chasers)."

"Since I last spoke some faint attempts have been made in Germany to secure the security of our attitude and aim. But just as is the denial of this part of our cause becomes fainter still—it dissolves into the thinness of thin air—when it has to meet the answer of the German people, and our allies are withstanding a power whose aim is nothing less than the domination of Europe. We have seen the avowed belief of the leaders of Germany thought—I will not say of the German people, but of those who have come to us from Germany—that our German policy—that such a domination, carrying with it the supremacy of what they call their "race," may happen to the world. Let me then, ask for a moment what is this German culture, what this German spirit? Are there at present the missionaries in Belgium, and in France? (Laughter.) Marking over much to which we are a party, and the same can and in due time by the contingents which our Dominions are furnishing with our magnificent patriotic enthusiasm. We have seen here our gallant Territorials becoming the world in the last thirty years has been, on the intellectual side, the extreme and ultimate prerogative in human affairs of material forces, and, on the practical side, the taking of the world in the fall of the Roman Empire, the multiplication of the machinery of destruction."

"The men who have adopted this policy believe that power is the be-all and end-all of the state, naturally treaty is nothing more than words talk about the rights of the weak and the obligations of the strong is only so much threatening talk. For many years the remarkable feature of this new school of doctrine is whatever be its intellect or its ethical merit, it has been, in the practical side, the cause for life to a very purblind philosophy."

"German culture, the German spirit, did not save the emperor and his people from delusions and miseries calculations in dangerous they were, when in regard to the Balkans. We were betrayed by these cultured observers to be the dead-end descendants of a people who, by a combination of luck and of fraud had picked up when on military service. He is in fact a kind of rural Dr. San-Grado, and if blood-letting and purgatives will not do him no good then the patient must die—for such is the will of God."

Thibet's Offer of Soldiers

The Indian Army of King George has offered 1,000 troops to King George, probably the most curiously elected ruler in the world.

The main article of the Lamast is that he is a man of iron. When Lamast dies it is believed that he will once again reappear in human form, and to determine in what way the prince is incarnated. Certain physical signs, usually peculiar deformities, are supposed to indicate the identity of the king, and the names of the children, according to the required description are written on pieces of paper, which are rolled up and placed in a golden ring.

After eight days the arm is spun and the rings come out three times, whereupon its heart is cut out, claimed and installed as Dalai Lama

The Submarine

The Swordfish of Modern Naval Warfare

Keen interest in the whole question of the submarine, and the success of a German submarine flotilla in sinking the Ambukur, the Cressey and the Hogue. Needless to say that the battle between the Percy Scott letter in the Times of June 5 last as to the relative efficiency of the battleship and the submarine in naval warfare has been heatedly revived.

As to what the submarine is and does, the following is from the London Morning Post given in the following lucid description:

"So much has been written concerning the submarine, by far the most imaginative, that most people are somewhat uncertain as to what the submarine actually is and does. To begin with, she is shaped like a cigar, and she carries a tower on her back. Inside the tubular stem is a space so low that the engineers can hardly stand upright, and the internal combustion engine, which drives the vessel, is under water. Below the floor, or deck, of the interior of the hull is the cross-piece, which is level with his face, and rotates the column, while he sits in front of it.

In the mirror he beholds an image, little and bright, of a section of the sea and horizon, and by swinging it to and fro he sees what is reflected in the periscope above, which is the eye of the steel fish. Alongside the periscope is the steering wheel, which is mounted on two hatchets to the deck of the conning tower, which is raised five or six feet above the top of the hull, and is protected by a breast-high rail lined with canvas. Here is the wheel, and here, when the vessel is at anchor, is the captain's cabin and the quartermaster's.

TWO SIDES TO A STORY

Not long ago a Canadian lumberman received a few hundred orders from wholesale jobbers in the United States for goods on which there happened to be no import duty in that country. The answer was very prompt:

"Dear Sir—Replies to your favor of the 18th, we beg to say that we cannot place any orders with any foreign houses at present, even at a difference of ten or fifteen per cent, in favor of their goods. The sole and simple reason is that we have to keep our own factories busy on this side of the line, and we consider it worth while to make a few sacrifices for the sake of doing it."

This reply was kept by the Canadian manufacturer as an admirable sample of American loyalty to American institutions. It was repeated in the kind of business operation that has made the United States, the third largest nation in the world. And administration of such a spirit and business long-sightedness can very well help teach us a lesson that is being brought home to us these days.

Canada just now needs all the business she can get to keep her own factories busy. Canadians are learning that in nearly every line there are made in Canada articles as good and cheap as anything imported, yes, and frequently both better and cheaper. Before purchasing the latter they are taking steps first to consider if there is not a Canadian article of at least equal value.

When next you go into a store to purchase an article, find out whether it is made in Canada. If so buy it. If Canada does not produce it, the Empire surely does. Then buy the Empire product in preference to the foreign.—London Herald.

LUCILLE LOVE, THE GIRL OF MYSTERY

Series No. 7

The seventh picture of the Lucille series. After a strenuous effort to regain the papers which will save her father from dishonor, Lucille Love and Hugo Loubeque, her father's enemy, find themselves adrift in an open boat off the coast of China. The papers, possession of which both are fighting for, are now in the hands of Captain Wetherall of the ship from which Lucille and Loubeque were cast adrift.

The enemy between Lucille and the spy dies down when they find themselves in the same boat at the mercy of the waves and winds. They are a man and a woman fighting against death. When Lucille awakes from her first sleep of fatigue and exhaustion, she learns from Loubeque that the latter had sprung a leak and is sinking. In the days that follow Loubeque proves to be man indeed. As a result of their shared fate Lucille becomes delirious, and it is only by use of man strength that Loubeque keeps her in the boat.

After many days, however, the outcasts land on the coast of China. Lucille is ill and the spy turns her over to an old Chinese woman. However, as soon as one danger is averted another springs up. The Chinese woman no sooner sees the costly necklace which Lucille wears than she decides to steal it. Lucille learns of the plot, and when the thieving woman and a confederate come to rob her she is prepared. In self-protection she shows the Chinese woman uses the confidence of the woman's retreat.

In the meantime Hugo Loubeque has gathered a force of men and attacked Captain Wetherall's ship, which rides in the harbor. Loubeque takes the precious documents from the captain and has him thrown into prison. Loubeque then opens negotiations with a Chinese merchant, which results in his signing an agreement to smuggle ammunition to the port.

Lucille learns from the imprisoned sea captain that Loubeque has again come into the possession of the papers. The captain, however, had retained Loubeque's diary, and this he gives to the girl. While shadowing Loubeque Lucille learns of his intended smuggling operation, and when the occasion offers she steals Loubeque's signed contract with the Chinese merchant, with the intention of using it as leverage to force the stolen documents from him.

The girl, however, is now in a new predicament. Loubeque has regained possession of his ship and intends sailing immediately for the United States, where the papers will be used to dishonor her father. She hides on the wharf and watches Loubeque board the ship. It will sail within a few minutes, and whatever she does must be done quickly.

Bellevue Happenings

Rumor hath it that our old friend Bill Grafton is to start a chain of shooting galleries through The Pass, the initial venture will, we believe, be made in Coleman.

The best Christmas present that could possibly be given to our friend Mrs. Rudd, who would be a licensee to the Southern hotel, here's hoping that the Commissioners will "come through" on the 22nd.

Harold O'Dell, who has been working on the hough crew at No. 2 mine, expects to leave for the Old Country after the New Year. His brother, a resident of London, has volunteered for the front, and Harold, feels it incumbent upon him to follow, not in father's but brother's footsteps.

Apropos of the Hogmanay Ball to be held in Bellevue on the 31st we are informed that the Bellevue orchestra, which is to furnish the music for this occasion, will render a programme of entirely new music; this music has been received from some of the most prominent music publishers in Chicago and New York. Much attention is given to the exact status of a bullet supper, it simply means that supper will be served very much the same as in a short order restaurant, that is to say you can have supper all the way from 15 cents to 50 cents, depending altogether on your appetite.

The Blairmore hotel changed hands on Tuesday, the new manager being Thomas Pessereta, from Nelson, B.C. Mr. Pessereta has had considerable experience in the hotel business and hopes to revive the old-time trade to the Blairmore hotel.

The Berlin newspapers have been deluding the public with dispatches saying that German warships have sailed up the St. Lawrence and seized Quebec, and that the United States has invaded and seized Canada; that Ireland is at war with England and numerous battles are being fought.

L. H. Putman returned from Macleod on Wednesday night, where he had been defending the two Hillcrest Russians who were charged with attempt to do bodily harm by using knives. One of the culprits got off scot-free, while the other was sentenced to serve three months, term to run from time of his arrest about a month ago.

The first serious blow inflicted on the Turkish navy since the entrance of the Ottomans into the war was the sinking of the Turkish battleship Mesopotamia by a British submarine in the Dardanelles. This was accomplished by Lieut.-Commander Holbrook by diving under five rows of mines and torpedoing the battleship and escaping without a scratch. The feat is described as the boldest marine exploit of the war.

The Iron Duke is the first battleship to be equipped with specially designed guns for aircraft. These guns are capable of sending a projectile made especially for this purpose, to a height of over 10,000 feet, at the rate of twelve to fifteen a minute, while it also has a battery of 6 inch quick-fires for beating off the attack of torpedo craft, which throw a 100-pound projectile and make such accurate shooting that a score of 100 per cent hits is frequently made with them.

As far as we can learn there are likely to be at least six candidates to contest the three vacancies on the Blairmore council, although many others are named who declare their unwillingness to accept nomination. Among those named for nomination are:—M. Dower, A. A. Sparks, J. J. Purvis, S. J. Sargent, L. Lougheed, J. Little, and P. Nicastro. There is no great interest in the contest for the mayorship as yet, and the office does not appear to receive much public attention.—Blairmore Enterprise.

J. J. Purvis, above referred to, is a Westville boy and a son of the late Alexander Purvis. Here's hoping to see you at the head of the poll John!—Westville Free Lance of December 10.

Dr. J. C. Miller, superintendent of technical education, came down from Edmonton on Monday. The superintendent reports that the night schools are working good at Coleman, where five classes are going with a membership roll of upwards of 100. At Frank these classes are in operation, while a similar number of classes have been organized at Bellevue. It is very likely that several classes will be formed in Blairmore early in January. Already a class in English is being conducted under the tutelage of Rev. W. H. Munroster, and this work will amalgamate with the provincial system.

The work of installing the track scales near the Green Hill mine tipple was completed yesterday, so that shipling operations will commence at once.

Wait a few days before buying apples. Handley has a shipment of Black Twigs to arrive, at $1.40 per case.

A young couple who recently started out from Bellevue under some real and some assumed names have been attracting considerable attention from private citizens and the authorities. Registering at certain hotels between Fernie and Medicine Hat, at which the malefactor became known through trying to cut down the cost of living by beating his board, the couple have become the object of tracer and may yet be finally rounded up. Such a case does not tend to uplift either of the parties, especially when both are fairly well known to the public of this district.

Xmas week, Handley will have Fresh Lettuce and Celery, Nuts of all kinds, Jap Oranges, Table Raisins, Xmas Rock Candy, etc. "A false idea has gone abroad that Catholics are opposed to public schools. It is an unfounded accusation because our religion does not discuss the right of the government in the great work of education. By divine right the child should grow up in body and mind, under the guidance of its parents but in modern times, many children would not be educated were the matter dependent on parents alone," so declared Rev. Dr. Lardon, O.M.I., in the course of a vigorous sermon on Sunday at High Mass in St. Augustine's church. The reverend doctor said that, for themselves, the public school did not fulfill requirements as the church associated religion with education. The elimination of religion from the school course would never be endorsed by the Catholic church, because religion was part of education, and any system of education apart from religion is truncated and, later, will prove dangerous.

The Iron Duke is the first battleship to be equipped with specially designed guns for aircraft. These guns are capable of sending a projectile made especially for this purpose, to a height of over 10,000 feet, at the rate of twelve to fifteen a minute, while it also has a battery of 6 inch quick-fires for beating off the attack of torpedo craft, which throw a 100-pound projectile and make such accurate shooting that a score of 100 per cent hits is frequently made with them.

In view of the recent serious outbreak of foot and mouth disease in the United States, with its subsequent serious losses and necessity for stringent measures, Canadian stock owners should acquaint themselves with the particulars of this disease. A seven page pamphlet, prepared by Dr. J. G. Rutherford, formerly Veterinary Director General for Canada, outlines the symptoms and appearance of the disease with its treatment and preventive measures. In view of the fact that it is one of the most infectious diseases known, attacking nearly all species of farm animals, and that the many different ways in which its germs can be conveyed from place to place render it very difficult to prevent its spread once it has made its appearance in a community, preventive measures of the utmost importance. In this pamphlet a number of such measures have been outlined by Dr. Rutherford, a knowledge of which should prove of great value should the disease make its appearance in Canada.
